

I feel the greater the amount of independent media, the better. The current trend towards conglomeration is a disservice to all citizens, and a danger to democracy. It doesn't matter whether a person is liberal or conservative. Allowing a single person or entity to control large amounts of media and especially different types, stifles the ability for the public to receive accurate information. It also stifles public debate.